

Lewis and Clark project: Self-grading rubric

Use the rubric below to grade your own project. If you reflect on your own work fairly and honestly, I will use a combination of your assessment and my own for your project grade.

1. Content What did you learn, and how did it shine through in your project? Did you create something valuable and informative?	Score yourself here on a scale of 1 (poor) to 5 (excellent)	Defend and explain your score here
2. Effort How much time, energy, and care did you expend in creating this project? How does it compare with the work of your peers?	Score yourself here on a scale of 1 (hardly any) to 5 (a lot)
3. Mastery and effectiveness How effective is your project in explaining your topic of study? Could your project, on its own, educate and inform someone about the subject?	Score yourself here using a scale of 1 (poor) and 5 (excellent)
4. Execution and integrity Is all the writing your own? Did you cite your sources when you quoted other web sites? How does it look? Are you proud of the product?	Score yourself here using a scale of 1 (poor) and 5 (excellent)
5. Value of knowledge What did you learn? Was this project valuable in helping you understand the subject material?	Score yourself here using a scale of 1 (nothing) and 5 (very much)
TOTAL SCORE (out of 25):
